Harmonious living in a discordant world:
This is one of the aims of people everywhere:

It is a particular aim of Middlebury College, which strives each year to send an educated and well-adjusted group of students into the world of daily living, that they, by their efforts, may change some of the discord back into harmony again.

The 1955 Kaleidoscope strives to convey this thought by the use of a musical theme. The book is divided into three sections which correspond to the three sections used in a symphonic first movement form. These sections are: the Exposition in which the themes are presented; the Development in which they are expanded and embellished; and the Recapitulation in which they are recalled for a final time.

In the Kaleidoscope these three sections contain correspondingly: the themes and purposes of Middlebury College for the student; the means for growth and development by the student; and finally, a pictorial and literary collection of memories of the student which have been gathered and stored away during four years at Midd.

MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE

pleasantly situated in

Middlebury, Vermont Dedicated to
SAMUEL GUARNACCIA

In a small college such as Middlebury we have the advantage of knowing our professors as something more than men we see in front of a class three hours a week. We know them as teachers, as advisors to student activities and as friends. Samuel Guarnaccia, since he first came to Middlebury in 1940, has come to typify this closeness between students and faculty at Middlebury. Whether teaching Spanish and Italian, coaching the boys on the football field, or advising any one of the activities he has guided in the past, he has shown the same exuberant spirit and sincere interest in the students that has made his name a byword for friendliness and concern at Middlebury. His personal qualities of independence of mind, courage, and integrity have won our respect; his spontaneity, sense of humor, and quick smile have won our friendship. Writing in the Campus this year, Mr. Guarnaccia said, “Dante asks, ‘What is a man worth unless he is willing to embrace a cause?’” In his own answer to this, in his years at Middlebury “Sam” has shown his willingness to support the student cause—particularly this past year in his unfailing support of the efforts to revitalize and unify student government. As thanks for his continued interest and support, the class of 1955 has voted to dedicate this yearbook to Samuel Guarnaccia.

The Themas of Middlebury College: A varied and liberal education—or that's what most of us came for; An able administration and a wise and guiding faculty—for they are what make such an education possible; A distinctive countryside, splendor, and ever-increasing facilities. For these give added enjoyment and increased opportunities in our college activities; A harmonious student body—from whom we have chosen our friends —and life partners—and with whom we have shared and enjoyed our years here at Midd.
Middlebury College . . . memories of those Monday morning eight o'clocks, the Stu U crowd at ten, Klondike Rush, New England boiled dinners, Dunmore, and the filtering soot hovering o'er the south end of campus. These and many more have made up our daily lives this past year at Midd. Let's travel backward for a moment and try to capture 1954-55 in retrospect.

March is always the longest month of the year, regardless of the days. Take for instance March 1954 . . . just what did we do with ourselves besides hopefully pray for spring? Well, the class of '55 really began to feel like seniors when Jane Robinson and Wally Beevers respectively took over the presidencies of the Women's and Men's Undergraduate Associations. Sue Heyer and Hal Higgins also were elected as Chief Justices by the student body. And then "Don Juan in Hell" was read in Mead Chapel . . . one of the strongest arguments yet for a new playhouse! About this time too, Sonny Dennis was elected one of the top five on the Colliers' Magazine All New England Team, and the '54 Midd pucksters had just finished up the hockey season with an outstanding 11-1 win over Hamilton College.

And then it was Conference time, with that all inclusive topic: "National Security and Individual Freedom; An American Conflict?" Remember the tense court-room scene between Flanders and Jones? . . . History was made in Middlebury when a town meeting resulted in an affirmative vote for a State Liquor Store. Since then the group gathers once again at the Rutland Railway depot—but not for the milk train!

Midd's ski team took the Eastern Intercollegiate Ski Championship for the second straight year. Captain Les Streeter annexed his forth Skimeister title of the season in the nordic events by UNH at Lyndonville.

Then the T.C.'s got a ring-side seat at the year's biggest blaze . . . Middlebury High School was gutted by flames one memorable March night. The immediate result: 300 school-less students up on the hill marching Munroe-ward with the rest . . . The March winds took leave with much of the campus meeting at the Snowbowl for the annual "sugaring-off" . . . Middlebury style.

Spring crept in on muddy sneakers and slickers. Skis were towed away for another season and the old Dunmore blanket salvaged from the moth balls . . . We left New England's April Showers for our first vacation since the Christmas holidays—"Rides wanted" frantically plastered helter skelter over the Stu U bulletin board. And then that short glorious week . . . over much too soon. The Fort Lauderdale group arrived back well tanned and freshly stocked with stories of intrigue and adventure.

We hardly had time to catch our collective breaths before 1954's Junior Weekend was "Just Around the Corner" . . . the Variety Show tunes were hummed by many a prof, as well as students, for weeks after the successful show . . . The month of May was a fairly eventful one, particularly with both the Men's and Women's Assemblies investigating the student wage scale at Midd, with the result that campus job-holders were given a boost in salary.

We were sorry to see Miss Mary Rosevear, associate professor of physical education bid farewell to Midd after thirty years of service . . . then Frontiers swept the campus by storm . . . with the exception of one piece of satire, better kept in the portfolio, the issue had many favorable innovations.
(and we hope to see it again)! The Midd Mountaineers put the finishing touches on their major accomplishment—Voter White cabin, built on a rocky ledge overlooking a small pond and the White Mountains beyond.

And then it was June and we bid farewell to the class of '54 and to our own classmates and friends.

September Song . . . back to old New England in the wake of Carol and Edna—hurricanes that is! A hurried reunion in Pine Plains to stretch out the summer a bit before another pull at the books. Old friends and new faces to greet and meet . . . a special welcome to those who spent junior year in Europe . . . and congrats to the nineteen who survived the summer's ROTC training at Fort Bragg . . . a reunion also for the Walla Walla cannery boys—the Westward Ho group on campus. Did you ever get to Frisco? . . . Professor Heinricks returned after taking part in the Sherwood Eddy Seminar during the summer, travelling through Europe with leading statesmen and educators.

Fourteen new faculty members appeared on the Middlebury staff . . . and several innovations on the house mother line. Jean Mac Donald '55 became the 'mother of eight' sophomore women in Voter House . . . Our first introduction to the academic side of life (and there is one!) was the College Book Store. Mr. Clemens, the new manager, installed a wide new variety of things to buy . . . from LP records to Life Buoy soap . . . And something else new! Nine and one half miles of pipe strewn around the field house, promising Midd the surface for a good hockey team, as well as Carnival Ice Show.

Homecoming Weekend brought back many a familiar face. Porter Field was packed with alums that memorable Saturday when Midd out-scored Colby 20-18. The Old Chapel Six were kept jumping that weekend too . . . October saw bare knees beneath bermudas for the first time on campus. Mortar Board came forth with a new Dress Code abolishing the necessity for toting a tennis racket or golf club when wending Stu-U-ward . . . This was the month of the Coke Controversy . . . "Hepburn Endorses MUA" . . . lively discussions and debates over WRMC. Student interest began to awaken among the long slumbering masses.
with Growing Facilities
Max Kaminsky arrived (an hour late) with "Jazz on the Campus Ltd." Seems like Midd was still on daylight savings or something! Kaminsky's rendition of "You're so Ugly" and "The Saints" were well worth the waiting however.

Lily Dache's latest creations for Freshmen women coincidentally appeared en masse with the arrival of Hell Week. The hilarious headgear proved distracting to many a male member of the class of '58, as well as to C.C. and English professors!

Dr. John Chalmers '38 returned to campus to deliver the annual memorial Fife lecture . . . Ec majors were present in abundance, the subject being "Dead Formulas or Living Truths, An Exposition of Keynesian Economics." . . . The best move of the month, however, was when Midd's Yacht Club journeyed up to Burlington one balmy October Sunday to take part in a sailing meet only to find out that the meet had been held on Saturday! Needless to say, Midd lost the race!

November moved in with a sudden flash of new jewelry around the men's campus—143 fraternity pledges sporting their respective pins . . . Of more widespread interest, however, was the construction of a new cement walk from Gifford steps to Monroe. This improvement assured a smoother path in winter, but there was still the inevitable river to ford at its foot come spring!

A series of joint assembly meetings were held throughout the year to discuss the mutual problems rising from increased student interest in campus government. Committees were organized to investigate the telephone situation . . . coke issue . . . drinking code . . . parking regulations . . . social legislation for women . . . and the possibility of a combined student government.

This fall saw several senior women demoted to the Middlebury High School and even grammar school! None other than our student teachers, getting a little practical experience by sharing their knowledge with the local school children . . . And no-one can say that Midd students aren’t aware of current events . . . for no less than a day after Hemmingway received the Nobel Prize of Literature, the Am. Lit. majors flocked to celebrate this honor . . . with symbolic sardines and onion sandwiches . . . candlelight and paper fish for atmosphere.

It was on November 11 that the class of ’55 saw its last football game, (at least as undergrads). Sonny Dennis was the team’s leading scorer as Midd charged through the goal eight times against RPI . . . The Soccer team finished its first season of formal play . . . undefeated. Congrats went to Frank Punderson, who played the dual role of coach and captain.

November ended with a bang . . . the official opening of deer season. From all reports the only game seen on campus was from the frozen food locker! (Returned of course) . . . ’Round about December it seemed that certain students felt there should be more of us around here . . . at least a Campus headline read: "Mortar Board to Establish Student Duplicator Service." . . . And then there was the time when the cigarette machine in the Stu U collapsed on the floor with such a thunderous roar that it brought Chaplain Scott flying downstairs to see . . . none other than an upperclassman who just didn’t know his own strength!

Just before Christmas the fourth pomalift in the country was installed at the Snow Bowl. An actual "Hue and Cry" was raised over the rates . . . forgotten, however, over the rush of the holidays . . . And then it was really 1955, and the seniors swung with a grateful sigh into this—the eighth and final semester of academic endeavor. No more shivering hikes through ice, snow, storm, and blizzard to the field house for mid-terms. Now it had a new appeal . . . there was something more inspiring to a hike through ice, snow, storm, and blizzard . . . with a pair of ice skates slung over one's shoulder!

The new year saw many changes on the women’s campus . . . nightly eleven o’clocks for seniors and more late-pers for the underclassmen . . . The new drinking code was approved by the Board of Trustees . . . indicating the actuality of student-administration co-operation. Early in February Vice-President Stephen Freeman returned after a 57,000 mile vacation tour that took he and Mrs. Freeman around the globe.

Bull sessions as well as organized discussions on controversial subjects . . . "Should fraternity houses be taxed?” . . . “how about making chapel walk One Way and using the defunct FADC field for a parking lot?” . . . “Who shall we have for conference? Oh, how about Mr. B—?” “But he's been dead since 1936!” As the year progressed many of these dilemmas were solved. The Student Union Road became a One Way street . . . IFC for the first time entered a state political issue over the power to tax fraternities. Midd's arguments against the proposed House Bill 36 were supported by the State Representatives . . . and the bill was defeated on February 11. Jack Gould, of radio and television, and editor of the New York Times, and journalist Ralph Ingersoll were among the speakers secured for the ’55 Conference—“Man's Changing Image of Himself.”

But we're skipping ahead of ourselves. We musn't forget Carnival . . . sun-burned faces on the mountain . . . Jazz at Sig Ep . . . Midd faculty men waltzing through the Ice Show in skating skirts . . . the goat in “Mr. Roberts” . . . the fluke goal that won the Hockey game for Dartmouth . . . the Bowdoin Meddiebempsters . . . Les and Kirb reigning over a “Moonlight in Vermont.”

That week following Carnival is best forgotten by a majority of the students . . . Remember the plague? . . . First floor Gifford, Pearsons Rec, and Voter House were converted into abodes for the infirm . . . Talk ran wild about closing school . . . but with the threat of shortening spring vacation, health was recovered quickly and we carried on.

Moving day for the sophomore women came around the end of February . . . The new Battell Dorm at last flung open its doors to the women of Porter House, Hillcrest, Weybridge, and Voter House. The men looked more favorably upon this move than the women . . . centralizing the dating material solves many a problem for those without wheels!

Phi Sigma . . . a new fraternity to Midd, was officially established on campus early in the spring . . . And so the year has rolled around . . . we'll miss those ten o'clock dates at the Stu U . . . the nightly rush for the sofa . . . the mad flights to Green Mountain . . . WRMC on your dial . . . senior seminar . . . and the chapel bells at sundown. We hope that the 1955 Kaleidoscope will help to bring back a few of these memories that we all have shared here at Middlebury.
“As students in college your Kaleidoscope is a pictorial and verbal record of college life as you have experienced it. As graduates you will on occasion dust off this volume and with mixed emotions look back at the Middlebury of 1955. Over the years to come, like your predecessors, you will return to Homecomings in October and to Class Reunions in June. By 1965 the Kaleidoscope will have become for you an historical record—a basis for comparison of the good old days with a new Middlebury and with the “present generation” of Middlebury students.

My wish for your and for our college is that you will keep closely in touch with Middlebury; that you will work for the preservation of our good name and that you will take an important part in fashioning the Middlebury of tomorrow. The history of Middlebury College is the history of men and women—of the faculties and of the administrations, of the trustees and the alumni, of generous corporations, foundations and friends. The future of Middlebury likewise will be determined by the loyalty and the devoted interest and generosity of you as individuals. If Middlebury is to serve your successors as well, it will be because of your dedicated interest and loyalty.”
Vice-President
Stephen A. Freeman

"A sabbatical leave is an excellent opportunity for a teacher to break loose from a routine and stand off for a look at himself and his work. The tumult of new impressions gained from 58,000 miles of travel around the globe has done this for me . . .

The common man around the world wants three things—peace with a chance to work, self-determination for himself and his country, and an education. The United States has an opportunity for real leadership among nations if it can come to understand the basic needs and desires of the common people in every country, in a spirit of mutual helpfulness. To do this, young Americans must learn to comprehend and appreciate their own and other civilizations and cultures; must acquire a receptive and sympathetic attitude toward other nations, their problems and their different ways of thinking and doing; must master their own language and the idiom of at least one other people; must be willing to suspend judgment and profit from the ideas of others.

This is a definition of a liberal education, such as Middlebury College is endeavoring to give its students. Thoroughly acquired and accompanied by a spirit of human brotherhood, it can solve the ills of the world."

had a good supply of extra energy through and donated it proudly to the Student Government, the Mountain Club, and other campus activities. We took to the slopes, and watched football and basketball. Fraternities and sororities made another claim on our time. And in between all this we found time for our special productions, like Homecoming, Winter Carnival, and Culture Contests.

The opportunities were there—and most of us simply enjoyed them.
School Days . . .

School Days . . .

Dear old
golden rule days
HE season is fall. The air is crisp and colors have a new brightness about them. Two professors can be seen walking together toward one of the greystone buildings. A co-ed in a red sweater scuffs through the leaves on her way to class.

The sun is shining in long rays through a classroom window. Academic life in Middlebury—what is it like? A tour of the campus might tell the story.

A freshman class in zoology are just receiving their pigs for lab—squeals from the girls and a pig-naming session. In Carr Hall whispered conferences go on between a couple of sophomores trying to distinguish Doric from Ionic architecture in FA 25.

Across the street in Monroe a voice says: “People . . . you’ve come through and come through well! The seven levels . . .” Down the hall a grumble is heard, “How can I get to know her with those darn seating charts?”

And over the campus at the Chateau, a freshman boy records his last five minutes of a French 10 exam. Monsieur Marty waves his arms and exclaims, “Alors . . . voila!” The clear fall sunshine sparkles on flasks and test tubes of unknowns in the Chem building. A senior Chem major waits for the reaction to take place.
Of course there are special projects going on—
The drama production class work on their one-act plays. Each member directs his own play, faces the problems and triumphs of practical theatre. The geology class returns from a trip to the marble quarries, carrying their little hammers and samples of metamorphized limestone.

In the evening there will be some lectures on the USSR—two students who have just returned from Russia are giving their impressions of the country.

Winter sets in and students hurry to their classes with cold noses and frost-bitten ears. ROTC classes are in full swing—three fraternity brothers sit hunched over a book learning the parts of the M-1 rifle—"So that's the firing pin." In Ec class there is a free cut to hear the lecture on the Keynesian theory of economics. Heated discussions of theory and more theory!

And then there are papers: "I’ve got a 10 page job due Thursday . . ." "Another research paper just assigned and someone’s signed out all the books!" or "I wish I could just get a slant." The browsing room is filled with busy thoughts: "I'm snowed! And who can I get to type the darn thing."

Knitting needles flash like lightning—the rush is on to get that sweater done for Christmas. "I've just got to finish it!" The Crim class is off to Windsor Prison for the day—Mr. Sholes explains case studies.

And then exams! No calm before the storm—"I'll never pass" is the universal wail. Out come the Hy-Marx—sessions with the books way into the night. "Will it be essay or objective?" "I've lost my notes!" The bitter cold walk to the field house and the even more bitter walk back. "Oh well, that will only “Did you call on me, Sir?”

“What happened to Westinghouse?”

“And somebody told me this course was a pipe!”

... and I’ve been snowed ever since make six D credits—but the draft!” or “It was a ball-game; I pulled at least a 78.” But all things end—and after exams can spring be far behind?

And spring brings Dunmore season—but still the books. Well, take ‘em out to Branbury! The windows are open and it’s hard to concentrate. Mr. Tillinghast’s history—turn your head and you’ve missed 100 years. Speech classes meet outdoors and orate from the chapel steps.

Mr. Walton takes his classes outside. “Paint from nature—get the essence of the thing.” Through the open windows of Warner hemicycle come the strains of Debussy. Mr. Carter explains the pentatonic scale and the Oriental influence.

And now there’s seminars—the seniors begin to bite their nails. Mr. Brown will meet with his seminar as planned. And comprehensives! That diploma isn’t so far away—.

And finally exams—the last one is taken—and school is over, at least until next year for most; for those graduating, college has been completed, but their education has just begun.

Men's Assembly:

Women's Assembly:
For better harmony and more effective cooperation, the men overhauled their STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Spirited by the enthusiasm and leadership of its president, Wally Beevers, the Men's Assembly was extremely active this year. Besides handling its inherited tasks, such as supervising class elections, taking care of disciplinary matters, enforcing the car code through the Judicial Board, and regulating concessions, it has dealt with several new problems and has expanded its functions.

During the year a number of new committees were established to deal with such matters as car parking and safety, the food services, and the formulation of a new constitution. Efforts were made to improve the telephone system, to have coke machines installed in the dorms, and to establish an academic honor system.

Throughout the year it worked in close contact with the Women's Assembly, holding several joint meetings with it as well as dealing jointly with specific problems. The basis was laid for the eventual unification of these two bodies.

and the women carried on an active year in WOMEN'S ASSEMBLY

Questionnaires . . . elections . . . campus-wide arguments . . . all part of the process known as Women's Undergraduate Assembly, the group which tries to keep social living at Midd in tune with the needs of the student body. Spearheaded by the leadership of Janie Robinson, the group succeeded in such "forward look" legislation as later hours and a new drinking code, both going into effect at second semester.

The most important item on the agenda currently is the possible merger with the men's student government. Many hours in the haunts of the Trustee's Room in Old Chapel have proved that cooperation between the two governments is worthwhile. The face lifting in the snack-bar, the campus car problem, the telephone shortage . . . all have received joint attention, a step toward destroying the separation of powers which have existed between the two groups up until now . . . Perhaps we could quote: "United we stand, divided we fall . . ." Let's get together!
Student Educational Policy Committee

The Student Educational Policy Committee, composed of eight seniors representing the divisions of the curriculum, is an organization which reviews Middlebury's educational aims and practices with an eye to improving the program and bettering student-faculty relations. Although relatively unknown, the committee deals with academic problems that affect the whole student body.

The establishment of an academic honor system designed to eliminate proctoring and place more responsibility directly on the student was the main project of the group this year. Among the several academic questions acted upon were the student advisor system for freshmen and the scheduling of senior comprehensives.

Student Life Committee

The Student Life Committee, organized as a correlation group between the administration and students, studies, and discusses pertinent campus problems. Though no power of decision is held by the S.L.C., they are important as a forum of exchange and an aid to closer understanding of campus needs. As in years past, the committee approved the year's social calendar and ratified any constitution changes. This year many new subjects arose for consideration, the coke-scholarship program, a new social code for women, the car and parking problem, condition of the Snack Bar, telephones and library hours. More functional and effective than ever before, the S.L.C. has served as a vital link between administration and students in this progressive year at Middlebury.

The Judicial Council

The Men's and Women's Judiciary Councils are designed to hear the cases concerning both men and women students who have violated certain college regulations, and to decide upon the appropriate disciplinary action. Because the women's council is in an especially good position to observe the effectiveness of the social legislation, it is often able to clarify rules which have proven confusing, to suggest changes in existing rules or to act in an advisory capacity to the other branches of the Women's Student Government. The men's council, in particular, deals with the enforcement of dorm regulations, car violations and cases involving falsification of identification.
Waubanakee

A golden tomahawk, symbolizing progress, signifies Waubanakee—a society of highest honor for men, which bestows membership for high standards of character, personality, scholarship, and group activity. Since its founding in 1911, Waubanakee has relinquished such activities as orientating freshmen and supervising pep rallies to Blue Key, and today is a recognition society for men who display outstanding characteristics. Although it has no formal meetings, it cooperates with Mortar Board in sponsoring Student-Faculty teas. Being a self-perpetuating organization, its members tap new members in a ceremony later in May; although the group has a quota of nine, it is seldom filled. Initiated last year were Wally Beevers, George Limbach, and Dick Makin.

Phi Beta Kappa

Since the founding of Phi Beta Kappa in 1776, election to the society has come to mean “recognition of intellectual capacities well used, especially in the acquiring of an education in the liberal arts and sciences.” Middlebury standards fulfilled the qualifications for membership, and the chapter here was constituted in 1868, early in the expansion of Phi Beta Kappa as a national scholastic honorary. Seniors having an average of 89 for six semesters or 87.5 for the full eight semesters are eligible for initiation. These high standards, as well as the recognition of membership in Phi Beta Kappa as a mark of academic distinction, make the key a symbol of distinct honor and achievement among students.

THE JUDICIAL COUNCIL

The council is composed of a Chief Justice elected by the undergraduate women, and one representative each from the senior, junior, and sophomore classes; and seven men nominated by the Men's Undergraduate Association, who delegate the positions of chairman, recorder and secretary among themselves. The two councils recommend to Dean Kelly and Dean Lee (in their respective cases) the penalties considered necessary in more serious cases. Due to their small size, both groups are able to meet at short notice, and work together informally and efficiently.
Blue Key:

Mortar Board:

Bibby, Skillin, Heyer, President Hammann, Robinson, Kivimae.
The Blue Key Society is a men's national honorary society, organized at Middlebury in 1930. The quota, though not always filled, is limited to five sophomores, fifteen juniors, and five seniors, tapped in the late spring on the basis of leadership, sportsmanship, and manhood. This organization has as its functions the indoctrination of incoming freshmen with the customs and traditions of the college, the formation of a welcoming committee for visiting athletic teams, the sponsorship of various campus activities, and the promotion of intercollegiate sportsmanship in athletics.

Each year the Blue Key awards a trophy to the freshman boy who has done the most to advance the cause of sportsmanship and the spirit of his class.

A $100 scholarship is also awarded annually to a worthy member of the men's campus on the basis of need and high academic standing together with the ideals of Blue Key.

One of the most important occasions of the year is the spring chapel ceremony in which several junior women are tapped to membership in Mortar Board. Their selection for the highest honor a woman can achieve at Middlebury is based on their fulfillment of the three national standards of Mortar Board, responsible leadership, high scholarship, and discriminating service.

Not solely an honorary, every Mortar Board chapter carries out its three ideals in its respective campus activity. Participation in freshman orientation, presentation of a cup to an outstanding sophomore woman, selection of the new Mortar Board, as well as many less conspicuous projects are worked out in the weekly meetings. An innovation of this year's group has been the establishment of an inexpensive mimeograph service for student organizations. Honor combined with responsibility is the keynote of Mortar Board at Middlebury.
Gussow, Towle, Samson Head 1954-55 CAMPUS: Consistently Publish 8-page Issues

The Campus, Middlebury College's leading (and only) newspaper, runs a close, competitive race with the grapevine for top reporter of life and activities at Middlebury. Hot off Colonel Slator's press every Thursday night, the paper arrives in time to forecast the circulation, finance, and advertising. Ink-smudged fingers sorted and folded newly-printed issues on Thursday evenings, and weary feet trudged through all varieties of weather to deliver the papers to the dorms, living up to the old motto, "The Campus must go through." Ad readers were offered everything from droodles to Musquete Randell by the competent advertising staffers.

With the addition of eight new talents as a result of fall try-outs, the Editorial staff began its famous investigations which solved the mystery...
past week's happenings.

This year's staff, chosen the previous April, was ruled by Mel Gussow, Editor-in-Chief, with the able assistance of Ann Towle and Earl Samson. Under their leadership, the paper featured several innovations. The most obvious was the consistent publishing of eight-page issues, starting with the copy which appeared on the first day of classes in September.

The Business staff occupied itself with its usual duties of subscriptions, what was in an Alpinstock anyway. Correspondence filled the "Letters" section to overflowing, and the crop of columns was a profuse one, including both the faculty's and a student's viewpoint. And there was always the front page news to keep the campus informed on current controversies. To complete the picture, pear-shaped and other-shaped scribes pounded out Monday morning quarterback accounts and pre-game predictions of Middlebury's athletic events.

"You don't have to be able to write . . ."

Notes From Desk of Erstwhile Editor:

April: Have long talk with self about theme . . . resolve to be efficient . . . choose printer and photographer . . . go to Dunmore.

May: Sign contracts . . . schedule Sr. pictures . . . put up sign-up sheet . . . nab avoiders of sheets . . . check with photographer . . . nab more avoiders . . . reschedule pictures . . . forget about Dunmore.

June: Distribute proofs . . . try to collect them again! . . . take toll of Srs, who "didn't show" . . . take aspirin . . . take exams . . . take vacation!

July-August: Work on dummy . . . go to party . . . work on dummy again . . . go to more parties.

September: Make second resolve to be efficient . . . consult Business Manager . . . figure budget — figure cost of proposed book . . . bring two into line! . . . inaugurate new tryout program (delegate this to Managing Editor). . . plan photography schedule . . . try to take in home football games (if this seems too much like pleasure, decide to check on photographers while there).

October: Consult engraver (thank goodness somebody knows what this is all about!) . . . make numerous corrections in dummy . . . assign art work . . . remember not to forget the things you forgot to remember last month.

November: Track down "conscientious objectors to cameras" to be photographed (find answer to 5th amendment excuse). . . round up faculty to be "shot" also . . . answer letters (this is another way of appearing efficient). .

December: Schedule group shots . . . write Daily Notices (from which main point will probably be cut) . . .

try to call Gifford — consider possibility of introducing homing pigeon service . . . make second copy of dummy . . . indulge in reckless holiday (it may be the last!).

January: A New Year! Forget this — it means nothing . . . send out same Daily Notices (which will be cut same as before) . . . reschedule pictures for which no one showed . . . buy new bottle of aspirin (economy size — it's worthwhile) . . . remember deadline (15th) — and start delegating . . . call in art and photography staff . . . mount pictures . . . delegate delegates to check on delegates . . . take finals.

February: More deadlines . . . art work . . . ads . . . photography . . . articles . . . aspirin . . . set trap for typists and proofreaders . . . mounting . . . checking . . . rewriting . . . more checking . . . consult Business Manager about ads . . . forget about efficiency — apparently you don't have the knack!

P.S.—Carry aspirin in pocket . . . it's more convenient.

March 1: Final Deadline!!! Nothing to be said! . . . Rest of month and . . .

April: Proofread sections as they return . . . take in a few classes (your professors may have forgotten you by now) . . . express appreciation to staff who were right there through all the rough moments.

May: Distribute books . . . finish aspirin . . . start getting acquainted with people you've missed knowing all year.

June: Take exams . . . register at Rest Home for Weary Editors where recuperative summer is insured . . . sit on front porch and look at Kaleid to see what went on in past year.
MODERN DANCE

The Modern Dance Club receives its true recognition only two or three times a year. This group of girls, led by Carole Rice, gathers together every Wednesday evening to do exercises and work on choreography. Their diligent efforts are largely directed toward their Christmas and Spring programs, but the reward of their activities comes not only from these performances, but also in learning new dance methods and in working for the benefit of the club as well.

The Dance Group, composed of six students, plans the dances for these performances and teaches them to the rest of the Club. Qualification for membership in this select group is an original dance performed before the rest of the Modern Dancers.

Under heavy make-up and light leotards, these enthusiastic dancers lose their self-consciousness as they reveal their intriguing and well-organized dance numbers.

"There's No Business Like Show Business"

is the theme developed by

WIG AND PEN

Under the direction of Meredith Parsons, Wig and Pen presented an impressive bill of productions as well as sponsoring such activities as a theatre open house for freshmen, a group of one act plays directed by students in the directing class, and fund-raising projects for the new theatre.

Acting as the governing body of Players, Wig and Pen operates under its own constitution and at present has a membership of twenty-two students who have accumulated the necessary 150 points and have received the vote of previous members. Anyone may earn points by acting in the productions or working on the technical end—stage-managing, construction, lighting, properties, costumes, makeup, or publicity.

The many activities of the drama department are actually the combined efforts of the Players organization and various interested students, but the purpose of Wig and Pen is to provide the leadership and technical knowledge required for a polished production.
"On With the Show"—THE MIDD PLAYERS

Places . . . Curtain! And suddenly it's opening night for another show. The ambitious Players hardly have time to catch their breath and wash off the makeup and paint from one production before it's time to start rehearsing a new one. Handicapped by the "great fire of '53," which destroyed the college playhouse, the group has had to add a few extra sparks of determination to meet the difficulties presented by temporary quarters. Nevertheless, a backward glance finds the usual bill of successful productions.

Spring being a time of experiment, the Players undertook a sample of Midd's native talent. Frank Payson, played by Wally Short ’54, was just a little cog in the big wheel of the Brownell Publishing Company, but he found that his way of life was what really mattered after all. Jerry Doolittle ’55 and Lee Goodrich ’56 filled the supporting roles in the premiere of The Golden Windows by Allison Phinney ’54.

This year got underway with the lighter note of Eugene O'Neill’s Ah, Wilderness! Ellis Baker ’55 as young Richard in the throes of teen-age problems struck a nostalgic chord in the audience concerning those high school days of not so long ago. The technical crew made its first encounter with the recesses of the McCullough stage and did everything but knock down the walls to make things fit.

Then on to the high school where, despite co-education, Mister Roberts by Thomas Heggen and Joshua Logan reached a very receptive Carnival audience. Phil Derick ’56 as Roberts, along with a crew of hearty seamen, a goat, a palm tree, and a much discussed red label, provided plenty of lusty humor, quite in keeping with the weekend spirit.

But the annual productions are only one phase of the Players' busy schedule. An open-house (this year a house only in spirit) was first on the agenda with a reading and a one-act to get the freshmen acquainted with the dramatic group. Training classes are also given by members of Wig and Pen for those interested in the technical fields.

One-acts again became the center of attention in January when students in the directing class brought into the limelight the finished products of the semester's work. These gave several people a chance to satisfy that hidden desire to appear before the footlights.

In case you're wondering what goes on during idle moments just drop in before a dance or Concert-Lecture series and you'll no doubt find some poor Player perched on top of a ladder struggling with a spot light and reams of cable.

Professor Erie Volkert and Mr. James VanWart, the directors of Midd's productions and dramatic activities, managed to catch the spotlight along with Mr. Fred Bowman of the speech department and Lynn Fisher '55 in a reading of Shaw's Don Juan in Hell. The performance was given last spring for the benefit of the theatre fund and was repeated at graduation.

But dominating the scene has been the continual cry . . . "We want a theatre!" And right now the future looks promising. Since the fire there have been numerous donations of books, costumes, props, and dollars. The goal really came within reach at the Homecoming banquet when Mr. Edwin Sunderland, a trustee of Middlebury College, generously contributed $116,500. Plans are now under way to replace the old playhouse, and chances are that before too long there will again be a "home" for the Players in which they can carry on their efforts to provide the "tops" in Midd talent and entertainment.

DISSIPATED EIGHT: Middlebury's claim to octet fame . . . first public appearance in 1951 . . . now recognized throughout the colleges of the East . . . membership drawn from the Midd men by open audition . . . Music in a light vein . . . Potier setting the pace for the group . . . fun, fellowship and fame . . . The Dissipated 8 . . . unquestionably here to stay.

MANHATTENS: A dozen distinguished lads and ladies... that cosmopolitan atmosphere of a New York night club... black outfits and white gloves... delightful arrangements of popular tunes... Shirley leading the way... 4:30 rehearsals in Forest East living room... their secret to success? Song, sophistication and swing.

HARRY POOR QUARTET: Organized for a W.R.M.C. radio show... featuring modern jazz... "Jumping With Symphony Sid," the theme song... individual elaboration by each instrument... spring jobs at jazz concerts and fraternity parties.

BAND: Football season and fifty yard line seats... "Never miss a game"... complicated formations... ducking footballs at those cold marching practices... Mr. Foret, our well-liked leader... cheesecake baton twirlers... five o'clock breakfasts in Rutland on away trips... Al and that "Fight" cheer... the core of spirit and enthusiasm at the games.

OLD CHAPEL SIX: Traditional Dixieland jazz style... do own arranging... problem of personnel... fortissimo!... "kicked out" of every practice place on campus... Robinson on trumpet, McCurdy on trombone, Auger on bass, Poor on saxophone, Parker on drums and Gennert at piano... out-of-town jobs at Dartmouth, Williams, and Union.

CHAMPLAIN VALLEY GIRLS: Formed "spontaneous-like" in the Chateau last year... presenting songs from the "Hick Parade"... misdirected by Big Slim, the American Song Bag and Vera Kose, the vein one . . . comic relief provided by Mansfield on guitar, Gerhart on tub-on-phone, "Janglenerves" Newmaker on smear drums, Lowrie on souped-up uke and immoral support added by Esty, Black, Waddell, Talmadge, Watkins, Proper, Duryea, James and Beyer.

CHAMBER MUSIC: Consisting of two separate groups . . . afternoon rehearsals at the Music Studio . . . Different combinations of violins, violas, cello and piano . . . essentially string quartets and piano quintets . . . music of all periods from Mozart to Shostakovich . . . concerts in March and April.

BLACK PANTHERS: Versatile group . . . many combinations of instruments depending on effect desired . . . varies from a large formal dance orchestra to a trio or septet . . . all types of music, the current hit tunes and the latest in progressive jazz . . . Al Hayes calling the numbers . . . spring months and especially busy ones with informal dances and high school proms.

SWING SIXTEEN: Mondays, Tuesdays and Fridays since September 1954 . . . originated by Russ and the fellows . . . "Quiet puh-leez, serious up and fall in! . . . What songs can we learn for our next broadcast? . . . Woody, what a terrific arrangement! . . . Remember: diction, feeling and blend! . . . Try watching Sandy this time!" . . . first public appearance at the 'Holiday Hop' . . . Where's the next rehearsal, Stu U or Music Studio?
Bible study groups with Dr. Shows . . . development of a Sunday School Department in East Middlebury Church . . . outstanding talks by professors and visiting speakers . . . Tuesday Night Vesper Services . . . Study group with Chaplain Scott on "The Meaning of and How to Lead Worship" . . . Riverside Camp Retreat consisting of a weekend of discussion, worship, mountain climbing, outdoor team sports, singing, and closing with an outdoor Communion Service . . . delegates sent to the New England Student Christian Movement Conference . . . financial support to S.C.M. and the Religious Conference.

Sponsored lectures Wednesday nights . . . a core of active committees demonstrating the groups concern for and participation in the many phases of student interest and college life . . . volunteer members working as nurses’ aides at Porter Hospital . . . work details to improve hospital and church facilities . . . aid to Thrift Shop and Nursing Homes . . . Two new scholarship funds: Foreign Student Scholarship Fund and High School Scholarship Fund for a recipient from the town of Middlebury.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

True Peace and Harmony

The strength is His.
Hillel . . . 1954's newest addition to the religious life of Middlebury . . . a branch of the National B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation, an organization for the Jewish college students . . . inspiring services every other Sunday led by a professor or rabbi . . . study of the basic fundamental concepts of Judaism and pertinent current events . . . thought-provoking discussions . . . exchange of ideas at Regional Hillel Institute with students from all New England . . . social activities at U.V.M. . . . Jewish holiday festival celebrations for all interested . . . active support to the Religious Conference . . . lots of hard work and organizing by President Di Shulman, Vice-President-Treasurer Ed Maline and Secretary Nancy Berkowitz . . . close work with the Newman Club and the Christian Association to promote religious activity on the Middlebury campus . . . a successful beginning and a promising future!

Catholic organization on campus . . . open to all students . . . events include the annual opening tea . . . a series of talks throughout the year given by the group's chaplain, Father Walsh of St. Mary's Church—by faculty members—and by guest speakers from such places as Rutland, Burlington, and St. Michael's College . . . frequent Communion Breakfasts at Dog Team Tavern at which guest speakers also appear . . . annual retreats usually held at a Trappist Monastery near Worcester, Massachusetts and at the Trapp Family Farm in Stowe, Vermont . . . a Spring clothes drive conducted for aid to an Austrian town greatly damaged by an avalanche . . . a successful and eventful year directed by President, John Akey; Vice President, Joseph Philbin; Secretary, Dianne Holland; and Treasurer, Robert Lewandoski.
Women's Forum members are kept on their toes all year 'round... freshmen open house... Hallowe'en parties for town youngsters... Thanksgiving baskets for hospital patients... children's Christmas parties... Kiddie Culture Conference... spring project... May Day... and finally an All-Forum picnic.

With the Community House in Middlebury as the base of operations, Forum serves as a link between college and town. Founded in 1936 as an organization to discuss international relations, it now engages in a many-faceted program of social service under the able leadership of President Betty Edwards.

Twenty-six committees deep, the wheels of Women's Forum run smoothly from September through June. Monthly board meetings held at the Community House with Miss Margaret Lane, Community House director, coordinate the group's far-reaching activities.

Moppets from Middlebury congregate at the House for weekly classes in arts, crafts, and dancing and for the story and game session, all under the direction of Forum members. Free piano lessons are offered to youngsters of the town, this program culminating in a recital in the spring. Forum girls also participate in the leadership of the Girl Scout and Brownie troops and the 4-H Club in both Middlebury and East Middlebury.

Profits from the Forum-sponsored All Men Broke dance and from the sale of sandwiches and doughnuts in the dorms make possible scholarships which are given each year to worthy Middlebury women. Middlebury date books are also edited, published and sold by Forum members.

Bi-weekly sales of repaired clothes at the Thrift Shop feature wearing apparel at low prices for the townspeople. In addition to clothes, the special Christmas sale at the Shop offers attractive toys revitalized by Forum workers as well as hand-knit articles.

The annual all-Forum spring project last year consisted of canvassing the town for second-hand books to replenish the high school library destroyed by fire. Other activities include hostess duty at the Community House, clerical work at the Sheldon Museum, plus weekly trips to entertain the old folk at the Chard Villa home.

A spirit of enthusiastic cooperation pervades all the Forum activities, which give 320 Middlebury women a chance to become better acquainted with the people in their college town.
Debaters

Resolved: That the United States should extend diplomatic recognition to the Communist Government of China.

This is the highly controversial topic that the seven varsity debaters undertook this year. Under the excellent coaching of Mr. Frederick Bowman, the club members were able to critically analyze a problem which is closely related to the world scene today.

The two most important tournaments were against UVM, November 19th and 20th, in which our delegates won eleven out of twenty debates, putting Midd in the upper ten per cent of the colleges present, and against Tufts, December 5th and 6th, in which they won six out of ten debates.

The conflicting opinions aroused by the choice of this topic for debate placed Midd among those who see that the faith in our American ideals can be strengthened by the exploration of the beliefs of the opposition.

Community Chest

The 1954 Community Chest Drive set its goal for $3,000 . . . Despite diligent efforts the campus came a bit short of its goal, reaching about $2,600 . . . These proceeds were sent to worthwhile charities . . . The two new Charities receiving donations were National Scholarship Service Fund of Negro Students and Father Flanagan's Boys Town . . . The big Community Fair helped the Drive soar skyward . . . Midd was proud to be able to share her good fortune with the rest of the village and nation.

Young Republicans

Aim: to help students to gain a better knowledge of the practical side of politics . . . encourages its members to take part in their own community affairs . . . stresses awareness of the great responsibilities of citizenship and leadership . . . set up an absentee voting booth in the Student Union during November elections . . . posters, stickers and information distributed.

Took part in Regional activities . . . five members were Vermont delegates to the New England Council of Young Republicans . . . President Alan Frese will represent the college and the state of Vermont at the National Convention in June.
WRMC . . . 750 on your dial . . . your student station . . . wide coverage of sports including away broadcasts of college football, basketball, and baseball (plus coverage of home games for invalids, cripples, and those who "melt in the rain" or freeze in the snow) . . . Music To Study By each night . . . regularly scheduled newscasts hot off the wires . . . and the Early Bird Show!

These and other programs fulfill the two-fold purpose of WRMC: to serve the student body and to provide useful training as well as a worthwhile activity for those interested in any of the various aspects of radio and broadcasting. The latter purpose is furthered by the opportunity of the student to choose his own field of interest between the announcing or engineering staffs, both of which are under the able guidance of an executive board of experienced radio men and women. In the seven years since it was founded the station has constantly been trying to improve itself. It is hoped that in the future, with the aid of the administration, WRMC will become an even greater asset to Middlebury College.

and Women's ATHLETIC COUNCILS

"It's All in the Game"

ATHLETICS . . . Athletics . . . and more Athletics . . . This is how we spend much of our spare time at Midd, either as a spectator or an active participant. Realizing this, the Athletic Council was formed to supervise this master of our spare time and to discuss the athletic policies of Middlebury College.

Football . . . basketball . . . baseball . . . hockey . . . track . . . all come under the consideration of "what's what" and "why" in the Council's meetings. Under the chairmanship of Professor Perkins, the members discuss and legislate on all business which is brought before it . . . mostly consisting of approving the lettermen for each season's sports, and confirming the choices for captains and managers for the following year's teams.

Other discussions . . . What to do about a sport that no longer receives support from the under-graduates . . . Should it be dropped? . . . What about the few who are still interested in it? . . . These problems were of particular concern in relation to the Cross Country team, for a definite lack of interest in the sport was evident this year . . . captains to be elected . . . How about dropping the distinction between major and minor sports? Advantages and disadvantages . . . Best talk of the year: Discussion by Directors of Admissions, Mr. Handy and Mr. Perine, on the policies of the Admissions Office toward athletics and athletes . . . touched many facets of the basic problem of the Council—namely, how to maintain good sports records without jeopardizing our scholastic standards.

On a crisp fall afternoon you hear their "battle cries" from the hockey field or in winter weather from McCullough Gym . . . girls participating in individual or team sports. By promoting good sportsmanship and exercise these students, members of the Women's Athletic Association are striving to further the purpose of their organization. Headed by a council of officers and supervised by Miss Tanner and Miss McGlynn, the W.A.A. establishes and administers a program of sports in which every girl becomes a member of a team. These teams, organized by volunteer managers, compete with those of other classes as well as those of their own class. Highlighting each sports season is the selection of an All-Midd team composed of the best team-members from each class.

As one of the most active associations on campus, the W.A.A. engages in play days with other colleges. Following these afternoons of team sports, the girls entertain their new acquaintances at an informal banquet. Other activities of the organization include co-recreational volleyball and badminton with the fraternities and award banquets such as the one at which the presentation of the 1,000 point Midd blazer is made to the club's outstanding member. As Miss Tanner says, the aim of W.A.A. is to encourage every girl to take part in some sport, striving ultimately for 100% participation. "So let's go, group."

SKYLINE

"We never mention Aunt Clara" ... or a lot of other things probably ... but everybody knows about Skyline, those exclusive Swamp-rooters, that select organization of lobster picniners at Dunmore and steak dinners at Voter-White ... those masters of wit and humor, who spend hours in the Mountain Club Office, propping the window open with a porcupine-eaten cane ... many weighty responsibilities, such as choosing the "Rabbit of the Year" and many little things like running Carnival ... model camp followers and Intrepid Hunters.

The Mountain Club Governing Board, made up of elected Skyline members ... organizing everything from Freshman Outing to those crazy spring picnics, to building cabins on the Long Trail ... many hectic meetings, many laughs, and many, many friends ...
ID you really join the Mountain Club?

"Did you really go on hikes in the rain . . .
get covered with creosote on the work hikes . . .
watch the sunrise from Glen Ellen and freeze at Cameel's Hump . . . and was it you that kept up the old tradition by getting lost at Mansfield?"

We may be tradition-bound, but what a tradition . . . soggy sneakers and heavy packs . . .
peanut butter and jelly for Sunday dinner . . . and those same old songs year after year—"Poor Lil, bumty-ah-dah"—and always a few additions, like Skyline Lodge at Skylight Pond, perfect site for those exclusive overnights . . . "who'll volunteer to make sandwiches?" or "you too can make Skyline," the reward of two years tryout period . . .

Carnival, the brain-child of Mountain Club, with everyone working amid much hectic preparation . . .
cabalistic rites to reassure ourselves that of course it'll snow!

Woodsmen's Weekend every fall . . . if it rains just move your sleeping bags under the table . . .
steak dinners for participants and camp followers . . . square dancing in the barn . . . and always those songs . . . anyone for swallowing a fly to relieve that Poor Old Lady who's been swallowing them lo these many years?

"So that's the Mountain Club . . . so that's why you're so fond of that thing you've been saving, that misshapen, musty, creosoted, smoky old vestige of a hat!"
"Sailing, Sailing Over the Bounding Main"

Moonlight sailing, Dunmore picnics, hot-dog cook-outs, and such friendly fun provide extra activity for the members of the Middlebury College Yacht Club, but their real business and purpose in life is... sailing!

Their spirit evidenced itself in numerous inter-collegiate racing regattas around New England this year; among the meets at which they captured top honors were the Quadrangular Meet held at Middlebury and the Northern New England Invitation Regatta, held at Dartmouth. At these meets, the Midd Yachters competed against such schools as MIT, Brown, Tufts, Coast Guard, Lehigh, and Vermont, while the freshmen competed against MIT and Vermont.

For the second year in succession the team won the Hewitt Trophy, in addition to the Schell and Fowle Trophies. At the helm is Commodore Pat Hinman, who also hostesses the big formal on Homecoming Weekend, the Commodore's Ball, and a spring picnic at Dunmore.

"Come, Josephine, in My Flying Machine"

Swing the propeller... taxi down the runway... glide into the air... lift the landing gear... and RIDE HIGH... And if you don't, you may find you're like a "raft upon the sand"—a Flying Club with its membership intact, but no wings to fly with... or to be more specific: the predicament of this year's Flying Panthers for several months... However, spring found their small black and yellow plane up in the air once more, following winter repairs... and the Flying Panthers are riding high for another year.
As we push open the door of this medieval castle, the unique atmosphere of the Chateau greets us. The meeting of Le Cercle Français is about to begin in the grand salon. Students are laboring to carry on conversations in French: "Oui, j'ai un date avec un Sig Ep." The hours fly by while we enjoy French skits, musical solos, and authentic French dances. As evening draws to a close we again step outside into the brisk Middlebury air after a brief visit across the ocean.

Russian Club

Russian Club . . . excellent opportunity to become acquainted with Russia, its culture, and people . . . many interesting talks on Russian music and literature . . . emphasis on old Russia plus discussions of the country today . . . annual fun-filled weekend in New York complete with visits to a Russian night club, restaurant, and movies . . . tea served from a samovar . . . lively dances and folk songs . . . valuable experience in learning certain aspects of Russia not found in the classroom.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club opened its season with a festive dinner of arroz con pollo (that's a Spanish dish of chicken with rice to those of you who don't "habla espanol"). John Weiger led the club in the most active year of its history. In an effort to build up spirit, greater variety of entertainment was scheduled, more meetings were held, and stronger member participation was urged. Officers for the next year were elected at the spring banquet held at Dog Team.

German Club

Don’t be surprised some evening if you hear enthusiastic voices raised in lively German conversation or songs—it’s probably members of the German Club enjoying one of their meetings with advisors, Herr and Frau Neuse. Programs this year included the showing of slides on Germany by Herr Neuse and Professor Hitchcock and a dinner of real German foods. One of the outgrowths of the club is a German table at dinner Thursday evenings in Forest East.
"In the meantime . . .

In between . . .

'M an awful lowly freshman
Standin' by the door,
Just waitin' fer me roommate
An' shakin' more an' more.

They say I come ta college
Ta git an edicashun,
But before I hit them study books—
One week of orientation.

'N when I 'just me glasses
On me desk I see
Me beanie an' me nametag
Just waitin' there fer me.
Freshman in College . . .

I kin also see my schedule
With many a rigid plan
Of tests 'n teas 'n 'pointments,
An' talks widda Blue Key man!

At last the week was over;
Then Midd Night an' the dance.
The girls wid smilin' faces:
I giss I'll take a chance.

Lastly, there is Hell Week:
How stupid they all look
Wid straight hair and crazy hats,
'N animals on their books.

An' that's the way it looked ta me
A strictly low low-brow.
But me orientatin's done for good:
I's a full-fledged Midd-ite now!
Midd Hosts Hail Alums with

"Hit him high—hit him low;
Come on Team—Let's Go!"

"Ladies and Gentlemen: I beg your attention for a few humble moments . . ."
Welcome Alums!

Combine five hundred returning alums, an exciting and victorious football game, gay fraternity parties, and the decorative Commodore’s Ball, and you have the atmosphere of a gala reunion afforded by Midd’s annual Homecoming weekend, held this year on October second. The Friday night pep rally sent the weekend off to a glorious start with many “Yea Teams” and a wild snake dance. All the alums got together for a buffet luncheon and a rehash of old times Saturday before the game and then spent the best two hours of the weekend cheering the Panthers on to a 20-18 victory over Colby. Supper at the respective fraternity houses reflected the jovial atmosphere of a successful weekend. Whirling to the music of the UVM Catamounts at the Commodore’s Ball, students saw the Slugs presented with their third consecutive homecoming trophy for their first-prize chapel replica, and were entertained by the Dissipated Eight. And then something new to wind up a magnificent weekend—a special eleven a.m. Chapel service on Sunday.
This year the annual Religion Conference, held from December 2nd thru 4th, chose as its topic "Ancient Religion and a Modern World: Are They Compatible?"

Dr. Leland Jamison, professor of religion at Macalaster College in St. Paul, Minnesota, represented the Protestant viewpoint. He presented the historical memories of the church as a fortress against the modern troubles in today's world. These past trials he asserted, provide assurance for the present and hope for the future.

Rabbi Maurice L. Zigmond, lecturer in anthropology at Yale University and president of the Eastern New England Conference of Liberal Rabbis, indicated to the student body the background of Jewish traditions and cited examples of this tradition in the present-day world. He discussed the problem of what he termed the "Y" in which the base represents the basic Hebrew traditions, and the twin stems symbolize Christianity and modern Judaism.

The third speaker was Sir Arnold Lunn, world-famed author and lecturer, who represented Catholicism. He affirmed that the church itself is not on trial today; the church has proven its worth through the past nineteen centuries. Instead the people are... on trial, and they must adjust their ways of life to conform to the requirements of their religion.

Following each of the formal lectures in the Chapel, an informal question and discussion period, in which students participated, was held in the Student Union. Here were discussed such pertinent questions as, “How can we prevent war by following ancient-day Christian principles?” and “Can Communism and Christianity survive in the same world?” Each morning the speakers gave a series of lectures in classes of the various departments dealing with the subject matter of the courses. This enabled the speaker to branch out into fields other than religion thereby broadening the scope pursued by the Conference.

For many months the co-chairmen of the program, Jeanne Savoye and Mike Philbin, worked with Chaplain Charles Scott and a large student committee to make the Conference a success. It was planned and speakers selected with the aim of appealing to those students interested in religion from an intellectual standpoint as well as those seeking answers for a further application of their faith. All who attended felt the program to be personally helpful in reaching a better understanding to the common aims of the three chief religions in America today.
WINTER Carnival . . . really "the most," in all respects . . . for this one four-day spree, routine is dispensed with, and skiing, hockey, dancing, skating, and parties in general take over as the Order of the Day. Relaxation is the word, unless your name is qualified with the phrase "co-chairman," but even if this is the case, it's still the most wonderful weekend of the year.

For weeks and months, certain elements of Middlebury population bow at daybreak to their Mecca, the Mountain Club office, where the preparations take place . . . people wonder if those co-chairmen ever do any work . . . how can they, when all they do is sit there and laugh . . . daily modelling contests to see who looks best in the Coronation robes and crowns . . . if the head fits, wear it . . . counting ballots madly, and then trying to keep the results a deep, dark secret . . . and if I vote for you this year, will you vote for me next year?

All the little details, so insignificant until they begin staring you in the face . . . prospects of having to postpone Carnival because nobody knew if you could tack the flags onto bamboo slalom poles, or if the tacks would split the bamboo . . . great crises when pinney numbers are sewed on up-side-down . . . and can you get more cars into the bowl if they park parallel? This sort of thing goes on and on, without end, much to the despair of the Campus staff.

Carnival and the Campus resumed relations . . . nobody answered the phone . . . it rained for a week . . . with a tinge of regret, Stu and Gardiner and Carolyn and Jerry entered upon a long hibernation . . . Carnival, The Most.
The topic of the 12th Annual Middlebury Conference—"National Security and Individual Freedom: An American Conflict?" afforded the expert panel many pertinent issues from which to present their points of view.

Dr. Frederick L. Schuman, famed author and professor of government at Williams College, opened the program with the keynote address, "The Dilemma of Freedom and Security." He warned that America is jeopardized by a "tyranny of fear and hysteria." Not until this is overcome can America hope to achieve either national security or individual freedom.

Saturday morning the first panel presented its viewpoints on the problem "What Degree of Limitation on Group Freedom is Necessary for National Security?" Donald G. Mitchell, chairman of the board of Sylvania Electric Products; Gus Tyler, political director of the International Ladies Garment Worker's Union; Rev. Herman Reissig, International Relations Secretary of the Council for Social Action of Congregational Christian Churches; and James Nevins Hyde, outstanding New York lawyer spoke from their respective viewpoints of management, labor, church, and law. Following this, the panel moderator, Dr. Robert S. Babcock of the University of Vermont led a discussion between the audience and panel.

The afternoon session, discussing "What Degree of Limitation on Individual Freedom is Necessary for National Security?" proved to be a lively program as the subject turned to McCarthyism. Newspapermen and TV cameras were among the huge crowd that attended this third portion of the Conference. Fowler J. Harper, professor of law at Yale University; Wilbert Snow, lecturer, poet, and professor at Wesleyan University; Robert L. Jones, Democratic candidate for the US Senate from Maine; Edward A. O'Neill, city editor of "The Louisville Times"; and Ralph E. Flanders, U.S. Republican Senator from Vermont, composed the panel.

Saturday evening, informal discussions gave the students an opportunity to directly question and challenge the views of the speakers on divergent topics.

The summary address was given Sunday morning by Dr. Babcock. After a brief résumé of each speaker, he concluded with his own views on the topic, asserting that "our national security is individual freedom."
Even in the mountains of Vermont, the strains of chamber music or lines from Molière may waft through the air... all this is due to the efforts of the committee which organizes the Middlebury Concert-Lecture Series. This committee is composed of both faculty and students; Jean Berger, assistant professor of music, has aided particularly in this year's series. Their aim—to bring to Middlebury the best in musical and dramatic entertainment; their achievement for '54-55—five programs offering an excellent variety of entertainment.

Molière's play, "The Would-Be Gentleman," performed by Players Inc., a group of young professionals from Washington, D. C., initiated this year's series on October 31st. Although attendance was not up to par, and the performance could not be called scintillating, nevertheless it proved a start. "Chamber Music" set the atmosphere for December 9th, as the Quartetto Italiano rendered selections by Haydn, Schubert, and Debussy: considered one of the best groups of this type in the country, their variety in choice of material and expert execution were very enthusiastically received.

Campus buzzed a few days before January 10th when posters advertising the great guitar player, Andres Segovia, began to circulate. In his rendition of Sor and Bach, those who attended found that he more than fulfilled their expectations. Especially unusual, it seems, was hearing the immortal works of Bach, with their baroque character, being played on a guitar. Gary Graffman, young American pianist and favorite pupil of Rudolf Serkin, offered a program of mixed and popular classical music on March 14th, while in April came the traditional concert of the Vermont Symphony Orchestra. Highlighting the evening was the performance of the "Concerto for Piano and Orchestra," composed by the guest soloist, Lionel Nowak, who is Composer in Residence at Bennington. Thus, another Concert-Lecture Series was brought to a close.

Bring College Years to Close
Walls of Ivy, Paths of Beauty; We have known and loved thee well." "Alma Mater" . . . words we'd sung so many times, but scarcely noticed. But now . . . our last week at Middlebury, everything seems closer, more real, more meaningful . . . A summing up of our four years here . . . a last attempt to gather together some of the strands that are meaningful to us . . . Walking around campus . . . knowing we'll be gone soon, yet recognizing some of the things we'd taken for granted these four years. "Walls of Ivy" . . . walking down Sophomore Walk . . . the ivy on Painter and Starr now green instead of the vivid red of last October and Middlebury postcards. "Paths of Beauty" . . . Chapel Hill . . . the walk from Gifford down past Munroe and the chem building . . . the path to the Student Union . . . the muddy way from McCullough to Munroe . . . not so beautiful in winter with sooty footprints. "Spired Chapel rising proudly" . . . the steeple silhouetted against the sunset on a winter evening . . . (Stop Being Sentimental!!) . . . "Morning Hymn and Evening Bell" . . . ten o'clock call to chapel for the lower classmen; to the Snack Bar for the seniors . . . time for a cup of coffee and some "checking" . . . The late afternoon chimes . . . time to relax after skiing or studying . . . to hit the sack or play a few hands of bridge or poker before dinner.

Our last week? so different from the four years of weeks we'd already been through. Comprehensives over. Dunmore now with an added gaiety . . . a last climb to the Cascades or to Silver Lake . . . and a last dip out at New Haven river . . . Packing up our books . . . and musing over what they'd brought to us . . . Ridding our rooms of accumulated junk . . . The women's last-minute carving of their canes . . . Fittings for caps and gowns . . . laughing at ourselves in mortarboards, yet inwardly proud . . . Quick scribbling down of summer addresses . . . promising to meet in New York, or San Francisco, or even Paris. Ice skates and skis up from the basement . . . wondering when we'll use them next. Class notes . . . some of them tossed out, others carefully saved. Sitting around after meals . . . leisurely, regretfully, but happily remembering. Comparisons of hopes and plans . . . formerly so distant, but now near and real. The thoughts of no more eight o'clock classes or Tuesday night seminars . . . Curiosity and wonder about Quantico, or Newport, or Dix. Law School? Katy Gibbs? Med. School? Some of us in each. What will we be like four years from now? Graduation week '59 . . . smiling in our visualizations of our friends' appearances. Comparing our present selves with the crowd that arrived in September '51. So mature now? Ready to conquer the world? We wonder . . .

The opening and closing Saturdays of the 1954 grid season proved to be dismal and disappointing occasions for the Panther eleven, but sandwiched in between was the best season the Blue and White has experienced since 1949. Sparked by seniors Higgins, Adrnirand, Beattie, Benz, Field, and Captain Limbach, Middlebury turned in a 4-2-1 season, upsetting three highly favored opponents over the route.

In the season's opener at Porter Field, the Panthers outgained a powerful Wesleyan eleven, 293 to 219 yards, but wound up on the short end of a 14-6 count. The loss of Dick Makin early in the game severely crippled the squad for the remainder of the game and the entire season. The lone Middlebury score came on a thirty-two yard pass play from Dennis to Peterson.

On October 2, the Panthers presented a homecoming crowd of 2400 a thrilling 20-18 victory over the Colby mules. Sonny Dennis and Roger Tirone shared the spotlight for Middlebury as they accounted for all twenty points between them. Dennis tallied twice, once by scampering sixty yards to paydirt after taking a twenty yard Rausa pass, and once on a forty-seven yard end sweep. Tirone not only had an eight yard scoring plunge to his credit, but also added the two all-important extra points that put the game on ice.

In their first game on foreign soil, the Panthers, sparked by Zip Rausa, romped to a 19-13 upset victory over Williams. Rausa passed for one Panther touchdown, and plunged for two others, with Dennis and Tirone assisting by turning in fine offensive performances. The Blue and White played an excellent defensive game as well, stopping repeated Williams drives deep into Middlebury territory.

Journeying to Maine a week later, the Nelson men came within one yard of upsetting a favored Bates eleven in a game which ended in a 7-7 deadlock. Trailing 7-0 at the beginning of the fourth quarter with the ball on the Midd four, Rausa fired a twenty-five yard aerial to Baxter. Just as he was about to be tackled, Baxter shovelled the ball off to Dennis who raced all the way to paydirt. Baxter converted to knot the contest, but with less than a minute remaining, a Middlebury drive was halted on the one yard line, after the Panthers had secured a first down and goal to go on the four yard line.

Returning home on October 23, the Panthers swamped a hapless RPI team 54-0 with the largest margin of victory turned in by a Middlebury squad since 1928. Coach Duke Nelson used thirty-two men as Middlebury gained a total of 464 yards throughout the game, while holding RPI to a minus eight yards in the second half.

Sonny Dennis and Pete Cooper turned in two touchdowns apiece on October 30 to hand the cadets from Norwich a 39-26 drubbing on the rain swept Porter Field. Roger Tirone, Bob Johnson, and George Limbach also shone in the game which Middlebury broke wide open early in the second half.

In the season's finale at Centennial Field, the only bright spot of the day for Middlebury rooters came early in the second period, as Sonny Dennis took a UVM kickoff and romped ninety-two yards to score. The game ended, however, with Middlebury on the short end of the 30-6 score, although Higgins, Limbach, and Baxter all turned in good defensive performances for their last game in a Middlebury uniform.
WHAT may very well turn out to be the final season of cross country track at Middlebury was marked by a number of dismal afternoons for Midd partisans. The Panther speedsters managed to capture only one meet over the season to give them a rather unimpressive 1-41 record, despite the number of fine individual performances turned in by several Midd runners.

Win Tremaine and Brooks Dodd, the team's only seniors turned in creditable performances in each meet, and captain Stan Hayward was outstanding on several occasions. The greatest single achievement, however, was Robin Hagemeyer's record breaking 21:13 time over the rugged William's course.

The Panther's started off the season on the wrong foot by dropping a dual meet to Amherst 36-23 on the Golf Club course. On October 20 they journeyed to Troy, only to be set back by the engineers from RPI by a 40-19 final tally.

Recovering from their initial setbacks, the Panther hill-and-dale speedsters traveled to Northfield and notched their only victory of the season. In their first state meet of the year the team managed to pick up a 34-23 triumph over the Norwich cadets.

On October 29, the squad dropped a 32-23 decision to a power-laden Union aggregation in their final home meet of the year.

Journeying to Burlington for their final state meet, the Midd harriers finished the afternoon on the short end of a 36-20 score. The Panthers closed the season by holding the Ephmen of Williams to a 28-28 tie.

Coach Brown attributed the season's poor record to the lack of interest in the Fall track sport at Middlebury. Because of this lack of interest he favors discontinuing the sport here and transferring the funds allocated to it to the soccer team, which is fast gaining in popularity on the Middlebury campus.
Soccer Squad piles up Winning Record for First Official Season

In its first year as a college-supported, organized sport, soccer attracted the attention and enthusiasm of the entire campus as the Middlebury booters turned in the first undefeated season a Middlebury team has seen since 1936.

First seen on the Midd campus in 1952, soccer at Middlebury is primarily the protege of this year’s coach and captain Frank Punderson. The season’s success was largely due to his efforts, since he was responsible for whipping the forty candidates into the smoothly operating combine which compiled the season’s admirable record of four wins and two ties.

The club opened the season with a decisive 4-1 triumph over Clarkson Tech. On October 13 they played host to a powerful Union squad, and a spirited partisan crowd saw the Panthers take a commanding 3-0 lead in the first half, but falter in the second half and allow the game to end in a 4-4 deadlock.

The Blue and White followed by taking two easy victories over New England College and Plattsburg State Teachers by two goal margins. The Panthers were held to a 0-0 tie by Albany State Teachers, but climaxed the season with a 6-1 triumph over the Dartmouth Frosh.

Leftwinger Bruce Byers was high scorer over the season with four goals to his credit. Goal-tender Al Sinclair, Captain and Centerhalf Punderson, and Byers were the only seniors in the club, but their presence will be sorely missed in 1955.
SPARKED by the return of lanky Tom Hart, Tony Lupien's cage quintet turned in one of its most impressive seasons of recent years. Paced by Hart, Captain Al "Sonny" Dennis, and Charlie Sykes, the Panthers fought their way to twelve wins against only eight defeats with two games remaining.

The Panthers launched the season on the wrong foot by dropping four of their first five contests. They did manage to pull out a 73-52 victory over Union, and the heartbreaking pre-Christmas loss to Tufts, 84-83, came only as the result of a Jumbo foul shot with three seconds remaining.

At the New England Invitational Tournament at Storrs, Connecticut during Christmas vacation, the Blue and White ran head on into an undefeated Amherst quintet in the first game, and when the smoke cleared Middlebury emerged with the 71-68 victory. Tom Hart had twenty-eight points for his evening's work, enough to tie the tourney record. Middlebury threw a scare into the Dartmouth Indians, eventually tourney champs, before slipping behind by a narrow 73-69 margin. The following day the Panthers dropped another close contest, 74-69 to Brown. Sonny Dennis copped the tourney scoring honors with a total of fifty-nine points and received a berth on the all-tourney team.

Returning home on January 7, the Lupienmen had a none too impressive 2-6 record despite having displayed a brilliant brand of basketball in several losing contests. They proceeded to remedy the situation by winning ten of their next twelve contests commencing with a 57-54 victory over Hamilton. They continued with victories in two state contests, 76-69 over U.V.M.—a game which saw Tom Hart hit for thirty-six points—and 58-44 over Norwich. After dropping a heartbreaker to St. Michaels 70-69, the Blue and White rebounded to trounce Wesleyan 89-67 on their home court.

Second semester the Lupienmen opened the term by dropping Trinity 75-67. Tom Hart, Sonny Dennis, and Cy Anfindsen combined to spark an 87-73 revenge win over St. Michaels. The club journeyed to St. Lawrence on February 9 and broke the century mark with a 103-93 overtime triumph over the Larries.

The following evening they laced into another Tri-state rival and handed Clarkson a 90-76 drubbing.

At Carnival the Panthers staved off a last minute rally by the Engineers from RPI and notched a 71-64 victory. Journeying to Norwich the Blue and White dropped another close decision to the state champion cadets, 53-50.

Over the course of the season, Middlebury's three big men, Sykes, Dennis, and Hart consistently reaped the scoring honors, but the quintet was well balanced by the brilliant floor work and occasional scoring sprees of four scrappy guards, John Hoops, Cy Anfindsen, Jim Wagner, and Scott Greer. The Panthers will lose only the services of their captain, Sonny Dennis, via graduation, and the squad looks forward to even a greater season next year.

Despite a season of injuries and illness the Middlebury pucksters inaugurated their first year on artificial ice by finishing the season as the fourth ranked college in the East. Much of the credit goes to Coach “Duke” Nelson, who, constantly faced with the loss of one or more regulars, juggled his lines skillfully to come up with consistently winning combinations.

Hampered by delayed installation of the new rink, Middlebury dropped their season’s opener to Tufts 5-1, with captain Ron O’Keefe slapping in Midd’s only goal. On the following evening O’Keefe taught the boys from BU how the game is played by scoring all five of Middlebury’s goals in the 5-4 overtime triumph.

Returning home, the Nelsonmen christened their new rink with a 5-3 victory over the Montreal AAA, a club composed of former college stars. Sophomore Hugh Marlow scored the first goal on the new ice, and Dave Kunzmann hit for the hat trick.

The Panther’s did not fare as well against a hard skating Clarkson club, and dropped an 8-1 decision. Journeying to Dartmouth the Blue and White bounced back to take a 4-3 overtime victory hitting for the clinching goal.

Goalie Ken Farrar shut out the Ephmen as O’Keefe hit for another hat trick to give Middlebury a 6-0 victory over Williams. Two easy victories over Norwich and Hamilton followed before the Panthers fell to a powerful St. Lawrence team 10-1.

Mac Binning turned the hat trick as Middlebury took an easy 5-3 victory from Amherst. On February 5 the packed house at the Memorial Field House was not disappointed as they saw the Panthers take a 7-6 overtime victory from RPI for their first win over a tri-state opponent in four years. Mac Binning scored the winning goal on a spectacular assist from Ron O'Keefe. A great deal of credit for the win also goes to goalie Ken Farrer, who played the entire contest, making several impossible saves, despite a leg injury sustained early in the first period.

Two days later the Midd men took on powerful Clarkson and held them to a 2-2 tie going into the final period before dropping a 4-2 decision. Buff Bermas, filling in for Ken Farrar in the nets, turned in a brilliant performance as he was credited with fifty-three saves. The Panthers dropped a 5-1 decision to St. Lawrence before handing Army a 5-4 defeat. The Blue and White had a little trouble with AIC until the third period when O'Keefe pulled the hat trick, climaxing with one of the most thrilling solo's seen on Middlebury ice.

In the annual Carnival game with Dartmouth, the Panthers lost a heartbreaking 4-3 overtime contest as a bit of rough ice caused a blue line shot to bounce over Buff Bermas' stick and into the net.

Ski Scannings

After finishing second at the Dartmouth Carnival, the Middlebury hickorymen moved in to place first at the Norwich Carnival, and then proceeded to take their own Carnival, and with it their sixth Eastern championship in seven years, by twenty-five points.

Once again four event man and captain Les Streeter paced the Panther squad as he took ski-meister honors at both the Norwich and Middlebury Carnivals and was the first American to place in the Orvis Cup race.

The team was also aided by outstanding performances by another four event man, Tommy Lamson. Tom Burns and Bob and Jack Beattie all performed well in their events, and two sophomores, Pete Webber and Norm Cummings developed into major factors in Middlebury's success.

The outstanding prowess of the members of the team was demonstrated by the fact that Norm Cummings was one of the two eastern skiers selected to attend the Olympic jumping tryouts, and Streeter, Lamson, Burns, Webber, and the Beatties were all chosen for the Alpine tryouts.

The eight women on the Middlebury Ski Team find life during the skiing season to be exceptionally busy . . . . the exhausting work of practice two or three times per week . . . . repeated runs up and down Ross Trail with Captains Judy Kirby and Sally Dickerman at the head . . . . here at Midd half the week, then off racing the last four days.

This year, as in past years, the women's ski team retained its excellent record by proving its superiority in various ski competitions with Skidmore, U.N.H., Colby Jr., U.V.M., McGill, and Simmons. In February at the annual Gibson Memorial Trophy race, in competition with some of the top women skiers of the world, Withington and Dickerman placed fourth and seventh respectively with Kirby not far behind.

For the tenth consecutive year the women skiers swept off with top Carnival honors, Kirby winning the downhill and Withington taking the slalom to give Midd a grand total of 289.39 points. Other team members who showed great promise for the future are J. Hauselmann, M. Hanson, J. Hoge and A. Davis. With both the Eastern and National races in the offing the team is prepared to keep up their previous record of outstanding performance.

Slope Sleuths: The Ski Patrol

Under the direction of president Fred Parsons the Middlebury Ski Patrol entered a period of transition as the ski area they serve was converted from a small amateur area to a large commercial development with its lift capacity and skiing area nearly tripled.

The patrol coordinated its activities closely with the National Ski Patrol section leader in Burlington and with Mount Mansfield Patrol. From this association the patrol benefited greatly in terms of technique and equipment.

The patrol began work in early October with about forty tryouts instead of the usual fifteen. Classes in first aid were given during the fall, and the Mount Mansfield Patrol brought an ambulance full of equipment to the Bowl for practical demonstrations.

The patrol was greatly aided by the return of national patrolman Dike Stimson to college. During the year Fred Parsons and Vern Gray, patrol members, also had the distinction of being appointed to the National Ski Patrol.

The large number of tryouts has made it difficult for the leadership to coordinate the work of the patrol, but the general consensus is that a marvelous service for the college and the Snow Bowl has been rendered.
SUFFERING from another typical Vermont spring, and from the lack of adequate indoor practice facilities, the 1954 Middlebury baseball team had a rough time getting their feet under them, and finished the short season with a record of five wins and eight losses.

The Panther Nine opened the season against AIC in Springfield and had the game all wrapped up until the last of the ninth when AIC pushed across three big runs to take the decision, 6-5. Bob Keating was the big man at the plate for the Blue and White with two hits in three trips.

Middlebury opened their home season on April 28, and dropped an 11-5 slugfest to the Ephmen from Williams despite the power-hitting of Julie Hodges and Bob Ducharme. Wesleyan managed to take the Panthers into camp by a 5-0 score two days later.

The Sheehanmen pulled themselves up by their bootstraps, however, and handed Norwich a 7-2

"Take Me Out to the Ball Game"
trouncing in their first state contest of the season. Chuck Smith tossed a four hitter at the Cadets and Keating and Pete Cooney each had two hits in three efforts to lead the Panthers at the plate.

Middlebury got its second victory of the campaign by dropping St. Michael's 7-5 as Pete Read picked up his first win. Jim Wagner had a home run and Cy Anfindsen picked up three singles as once more Middlebury displayed its offensive power.

The Middmen ran into trouble again in their next two contests, dropping 8-5 and 5-0 decisions to Massachusetts and Vermont respectively, before they pulled out anotherslugfest with Union, 12-10. The game saw extra-base hits galore as Dick Makin knocked out a circuit clout and Jim Wagner picked up a double and a triple in four trips.

The Panthers managed to get only three hits against Clarkson and lost a twelve inning heartbreaker, 4-3, after leading 3-1 going into the last of the ninth. The hitting famine continued into the next two games, allowing St. Lawrence and U.V.M. to pick up 10-1 and 7-0 victories over the Blue and White.

The Panthers finished the season on a strong note, however, as Chuck Smith led them to a 7-5 victory over Norwich, and Dick McDonald shut out RPI 3-0 on three hits.

Over the season, underclassmen Bob Keating, Jim Wagner, and Roger Tirone turned in a number of creditable performances, along with a number of their teammates, which leads Coach Bobo Sheehan to look for bigger and better things in '55.

"Cinder-Sailors" Set Top Speed—
Finish Second in State Meet

The 1954 version of the Middlebury track team turned in one of the finest records of any Spring team. The squad had victories over Norwich, Trinity, and Union in dual meets, and finished second in the state meet, only two and one-half points behind U.V.M.

There were a number of outstanding individual performances during the season, but Sonny Dennis consistently had two, three, and four firsts in every meet. Captain Robin Kloster performed beautifully throughout the season, breaking his own school discus record on one occasion. Pete Redman was the only Panther to place in the New England meet, taking a fourth in the mile run.

At the state meet, the squad presented Coach Brown with a Paul Revere Bowl in recognition of his thirty-six years of faithful service to Middlebury.

Lacrosse Has Laudable 5th Season

In his first season as lacrosse mentor, Coach Duke Nelson led the Middlebury stickmen to the best season in the short history of the sport at Middlebury. After dropping their first three formal games of the campaign, the Panthers managed to pull themselves up by their bootstraps and compile an over-all 4-5 record, which is quite impressive considering the caliber of their opposition.

In addition to their regular season’s play, the Nelsonmen also had a decisive 7-3 win over the Engineers from MIT in a pre-season practice contest.

The early season Panther nemesis, lack of defensive experience, corrected itself as the season wore on, and the Blue and White had victories over such teams as New England College and Massachusetts in later season play.

Captain Monk Ogden played excellent lacrosse throughout the season, ably assisted by veterans Bob Killeen, Gallagher, and Sullivan.

Fine year long performances by two freshmen, Ken Farrar and Mike Wilson seemed to outline a bright future for the Spring stick sport at Middlebury.
HE 1954 edition of the Middlebury tennis team provided the first signs of a "new look" in tennis at the college on the hill. The eleven match schedule included contests with several of the tennis powers of New England, and the clay court club turned in a creditable 8-3 record for the season. All of Midd's defeats came early in the campaign, and as the season progressed the netters became almost unbeatable.

The Panther defeats came at the hands of Williams, one of the best teams in the East, Wesleyan, and Trinity, the latter two by only one point margins. Among their triumphs the Merrimannen boasted 8-1 lacing over Saint Lawrence, RPI, and Union. The Panthers retained their state title, going undefeated in state competition and claiming 8-1 and 6-3 victories over "our brothers by the lake."

Coach Lockwood Merriman worked up a well balanced team with his players often changing positions from match to match. Although Don Collier held down the number one slot for most of the season, captain Bob Black, Spike Heminway, and Bill Breed turned in brilliant individual performances on several occasions. The squad lost only its captain, Bob Black, via graduation, and Don Collier, to the service, and a number of freshmen show considerable promise.

The Cheerleaders: "Go, Team Go"

COACH Duke Nelson's golfers turned in another outstanding season in 1954, boasting victories over such formidable opponents as Union, RPI, and Clarkson. The Panther linksters also copped the state meet to add another spring sport state title to the Middlebury collection. The Middlemen finished second ahead of Sienna in a triangular meet at Dartmouth.

The club was sparked by its captain, Dick Davenport, who consistently registered match-winning low scores. Jim Hunt, the team's only other senior, was another valuable asset to the squad. The team lost two valuable lettermen when Jim and John Merwin were called into the service early in the second semester.

With four lettermen, Don Sanders, Joel Hufford, John Kempf, and Chuck Leonard, returning, and a number of promising freshman candidates on hand, Coach Nelson has hopes for an even better season in 1955.

The Interfraternity Council

Promote cooperation, friendship and non-bias among the fraternities; to assist in raising their cultural and academic levels; and to insure them the fairest means of self-perpetuation. As a representative group composed of two members from each fraternity on campus, the IFC discusses pertinent campus problems relating to the fraternity system as they arise. Some of the important aspects of the Interfraternity Council's program this year were encouraging Help Week and philanthropic projects, maintaining public relations between town, fraternities and administration, regulating the system of intramural athletics in cooperation with the athletic department, and supervising all rushing activity. When the demand for another fraternity arose on campus this winter, the Interfraternity Council also lent its support to the foundation of Phi Sigma fraternity. Through this commendable spirit of cooperation, impartiality and good will, the IFC governs the actions and attitudes of the Middlebury College fraternity system.

The promotion of the ideals of good scholarship, good health, fine social standards and service to the college community as expressed in the Pan-Hellenic Creed through the coordination of sorority activities is the function of the Pan-Hellenic Council. The twelve-member group is composed of one junior and one senior member from each of the six groups.

In the advancement of its ideals, the Council each year presents a monetary gift to an outstanding sophomore girl, neutral or member, chosen on the basis of scholarship, need and citizenship. Each semester, a scholarship cup is awarded to the sorority attaining the highest average. This past year, the Council sponsored a series of informal dances at the Middlebury Inn during the football season, for particular benefit of the freshmen who had not yet gone through rushing and so could not frequent fraternity parties. Inter-sorority competition was fostered by a Sports committee which scheduled games between the different groups. Pan-Hell also cooperated with IFC in supporting several combined projects.

Most important of the Council's responsibilities is the supervision of the rushing program. Under its direction, a pre-rush Cider Session and Pan-Hell Serenade are given, the party schedule arranged, an informative rushing booklet published, rules revised and discussions with interested girls held.

In addition to campus activities, the Council sent girls each weekend to the Burlington Children's Home where they worked and played with underprivileged children, thus both contributing in service and in giving many girls experience in practical social work.

"The Gangs All Here . . ."
HERE'S your beanie" and "the Juniors request that all Freshmen—" greeted us lowly ones upon our arrival at college. Blue Key kept the men under control, and the sophomores hazed the women in the "half hell-half help week." On our feet once again we set up our class governments and worked hard for the merger of the men's and women's councils, a new idea in Midd government. It was new to us all . . . college weekends . . . our first hockey game . . . Pre-A's . . . and finals in the big room with fans, the rustle of papers, and scraping of chairs the only noise . . . whew! they were over . . . but Carnival was on its way fast . . . now that has gone the way of all good Carnivals . . . and we are still plugging on. As the saying goes "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again" . . . and the upperclassmen were at us once more, especially the men in their initiation hell week. We all went through rushing and came out of it alive and pleased. Everyone worked hard together on the Freshmen Dance—Bermuda Holiday—our first class project. So since we are here to stay . . . we'll continue with our spirits high for the next three years.
Sophisticated at Famed Slump Sail through 2nd Year at Midd

Men’s Officers: Dickinson, Mirabelli, Telfer (Heads of Council).

Sophomore slump—to hit or not to hit?? That was the question. But here we are, leaving our sophomore year—and most of us know nothing more about the slump than when we started, for it never really hit.

As sophomores, our main effort as a class was the Sophomore Dance, named this year the Holiday Hop in honor of the Christmas season. Engineered by many enthusiastic students and headed by Peggy Perry and Charlie Palmer, the class social chairmen, the dance was a huge success. McCullough Gym, elaborately decked with Christmas trees, was the setting and December twelfth the date.

The sophomore men started something new with a sophomore council, composed of 21 men and headed by Nat Dickinson, to take the place of the previous governmental set-up of officers. The sophomore women also had something new—Battell Hall. In a large confusing move from four smaller dorms, we became the first class to live in this new dorm.

We were no longer new on campus, and had lost all feelings of unfamiliarity and greenness. We could give directions to visiting parents and take Pre-A’s in our stride; our talents were contributed to campus affairs and our energies to many activities and organizations. We’re half way through—but still looking ahead to the two years before us when we join the ranks of exalted upperclassmen.
CLASS of '56... About to enter on the "last mile," but still remembering the past year with its many hours of "unsolvable" problems and care-free good times... It was undoubtedly one of the best.

September... Cy reigns again... Zane Hickox takes over the Women's presidency... "I don't know too much about parliamentary procedure so let's just vote on it."

October... The Junior Counselors advise the Freshmen: who helps whom?

November... Octopi, octopi, and more octopi... Will it ever end?

December... Engagements and long awaited pinnings... Something new and novel... The breakfast for our little sisters—Who forgot to order the doughnuts?... A bug for Santa... "It made us feel s'go-o-o-d listenin' to the Champlain Valley girls."

January... What to do?... Exams?... Ski!!!!

February... The Junior stars take over the hockey team... Just wait 'til next year.

March... The Junior dessert for the faculty... Girls forget their diets.

April... An "Out of this world" weekend... Dancing the night away to Harry Marchard's band... An awful lot of meetings and planning but it was worth it... Elections for campus positions—our talents are entrusted with a real chance to show their worth.

May... a Serenade to our departing friends.

June... Three down and one to go...
As school starts we seniors are still getting used to our new dignity. The senior gals carry their canes to classes and the senior men carry a certain assured air—we’ve been here four years. A Freshman is apt to wonder, “Will I ever make it?” There are all sorts of responsibilities which we now hold—presidents of fraternities and sororities, of the radio station, Campus Yacht Club and all the other extracurricular activities. The co-chairmen of Carnival, Conference, and Variety Show begin long series of meetings to get things running smoothly.

After the first excitement of renewing old friendships, buying new field-glasses, and settling down for our last year we take the toll of those of our class who have left us. The draft has claimed a good percentage of the men and our girls have been getting married right and left. We counted twenty or so in the last census.

We settle down to the business of the year. Senior men lead the school in current controversies of vending machines and dormitory telephones and the parking problem. Senior women head up a committee which changes the women’s social rules and drinking code.

Winter brings with it much excitement. A new crop of rings and pins are in evidence after Christmas. There is much serious talk about plans after graduation. The placement office is busy with interviews and job hunting has begun!

And soon it is time to think of seminars and comprehensives. Seniors reserve seats in the library and we wonder how we’ll ever learn it all.

We feel we must mention Dean Lee and Mrs. Kelly—they have done much to pull us over the bumpy places in four years, advising us during the hectic first year, helping us through sophomore slump, guiding us through our junior dilemmas and finally through this last year at Middlebury.

And now we come to June and graduation week with Class Day, Baccalaureate, and the finality of Commencement. We finish being seniors at Middlebury and start our new lives as “freshman” once more.

We, the senior women of the class of '55 wish to express our appreciation to Dean Kelly for all that she has done for us, not only as a class, but also as individuals. Little did we know when we entered Middlebury in the fall of '51 that she would have such a strong influence on our college years. Guiding the activities of a group of immature and confused freshmen was no easy task, but she helped out in a hundred and one different ways, advising wisely in every possible situation. Our admiration for her grew steadily during our sophomore and junior years, when her active presence in all matters of social and academic life left us wondering when she had time for her own personal interests. From choosing rooms to solving love problems, Mrs. Kelly was always there without complaint and with a sure solution.

This past year at Midd has been an eventful one, and needless to say, many of its accomplishments have been due to Mrs. Kelly's efforts. The Women's Assembly could not have progressed without her assistance, for she worked industriously to put into effect many of its resolutions. Realizing the poor conditions of the sophomore housing provisions, she strove continually towards her goal of a new dormitory, and with the completion of Middle Battell, her dream was realized at last. When two sororities found themselves "homeless" she was there with particular encouragement and support and even with the much needed scrub-brush when new rooms were finally secured. She has always had our interests at heart as well as those of the college as a whole. When memories of snow-covered mountains and the chapel on the hill fill our thoughts, Dean Kelly will stand out as one of the best remembered and most appreciated figures of our four years at Midd.

Special Remembrance to George Varley, West Englewood, New Jersey, who was killed in an automobile accident at the end of our sophomore year.
Walls of i-vy, paths of beauty We have known and

Tempo: ADAGIO • in slow, contemplative manner
Reminiscence

The four years are over already, solemnly enough.
Gifford, the Playhouse and Multnomah Hall, School of Science, Aviation, and merchant. President Stratton, journeyed to Arabia, and the Great White Father, and the Tuesday night seminars. "He was a scholar," said of March. "Tamer in a stream of the Commencement march.

And now, here we are, looking back on our undergraduate days at Mult, but pausing for a moment to remember some of the things that happened when we were..."
Oh, Do You Remember ...
As the largest class at Midd in 151 years, our college career began... orientation week kept us on our toes... discussion of revamping assembly constitutions began soon after classes... freshmen athletic teams were disbanded... Women's Assembly representatives were elected and the men approved their renovated constitutions... Hell Week came and finally went... snow on November 1... Midd and UVM geared for their big game, and we won!... the Community Chest goal was $2,500... Norman M. Thomas spoke, sponsored by the IRC... 170 men accepted fraternity bids... our Ides of March freshman dance... preparations for Carnival, and finally—the big weekend!... but Dartmouth won... we missed Fuzz Goodwin and Tom Jacobs, Midd’s contributions to the Olympic Ski Team... Alice Hildreth and Nate Whitesides were crowned the Carnival royalty... President Stratton was sent to Saudi-Arabia on the Point 4 Plan... fraternities pitched in to several community projects during Help Week... 81 women joined sororities... Conference emphasized American social, economic, and philosophic morality... Lodge was keynoter, Babcock moderated... the Gifford fire caused some unexpected excitement—several rooms were damaged before the fire was brought under control... Junior Weekend dawned—the Variety Show was superb... Robert Frost read his poems in the chapel... Hetty Green Wilks’ million arrived... the drinking code and women’s late pers were revised... the ROTC program was announced as a part of the next year’s curriculum... finals came and went... our first year at Middlebury drew to a close.
We returned from our first summer vacation—along with the Army—ROTC was here to stay... chapel was held only once during the week and every other Sunday—no regular assemblies... Recitation Hall had been redecorated for the benefit of the Home Ec. majors... Homecoming Weekend and the Wesleyan game which we lost... the fraternity discrimination problem came to a head... Senator Flanders spoke on war and corruption... the "Campus" celebrated its 122nd birthday... Mortar Board-sponsored coffee hours had their beginning... 169 men were pledged as fraternity rushing ended... the $3,000 Community Chest drive came... another check from the Wilks estate arrived... the UVM game—and we won, 19 to 13!... our Sophomore Hop, with Sue Heyer reigning as Queen of Scheherazade... the student poll concerning Thanksgiving vacation... a dearth of pencil sharpeners... Winter Carnival came at last!... Charlie Barnett provided the music at the Carnival Ball... Pres. Stratton returned from his Point 4 duties in Saudi-Arabia just in time to crown the Carnival king and queen, Fuzz Goodwin and Betsy Strong... we licked Dartmouth, too!... Mendelssohn's "Elijah" was presented through the combined efforts of the drama and music departments... 72 women joined sororities... Conference discussed how peoples outside the Iron Curtain could achieve unity and understanding... Lester Lanin played at a "Roman Holiday" Junior Weekend... we suffered through finals once again... Judge Medina's commencement address was a fitting finale for our second year at Midd.
Another year began—this one without the aid of the Rutland Rocket . . . the liquor store dispute became an issue of prime concern . . . men attended Midd-Night for the first time . . . more new chapel rules . . . the Community Chest goal of $2,800 was set . . . Homecoming Weekend with a piratey Commodore's Ball and the game lost to Williams . . . Frontiers was revamped . . . fraternity rushing was completed with 152 men joining houses . . . we licked UVM 7-0 in a thriller . . . a real Thanksgiving vacation was enjoyed for the first time . . . a Religious Emphasis Program came, with panels and speeches by representatives of three faiths . . . we returned from Christmas vacation to find Midd minus one Playhouse which had burned to the ground on Christmas eve . . . the Stu U got a new kitchen . . . Carnival at last! . . . we lost to Dartmouth by five points, but Les Streeter was Skimeister . . . the slushy weather didn't help the ski and skating events and the ice show had to be called off . . . Middlebury High School moved into college buildings when their school burned . . . Conference studied the conflict between individual freedom and group security—the Jones-Flanders issue provided additional interest . . . our very own Junior Weekend arrived with Shirley Folsom as queen and Lester Lanin providing the music . . . the new-look Variety Show, "Just Around the Corner," was out of this world . . . Olveta Culp Hobby presented the commencement address, as our third Midd year ended.
This, our last year: three new developments greeted us—the half-finished Middle Battell, part of the artificial ice rink in the Field House, and the beginning of the novel “Pomalift” in the Snow Bowl. . . . the college increased student wages nearly 10 cents . . . 500 alums returned for Homecoming Weekend to see Midd beat Colby 20 to 18. . . . Bermuda shorts were legalized . . . the coke controversy became a prevalent issue . . . Max Kaminsky entertained on campus with Dixieland and jazz . . . the Community Chest set a record goal of $3,000 . . . a modified version of Hell Week appeared . . . five seniors were taken into Phi Beta Kappa . . . fraternity rushing ended with 143 accepting pledges . . . and for the first time in four years we saw UVM beat the Panthers, 30 to 6. . . . plans for a new drama center took shape . . . the Religion Conference debated the compatibility of an ancient religion in a modern world . . . automobiles and their problems became a major issue . . . 11:00 pers . . . the new social code . . . rushing on the women’s campus . . . Carnival came, and we christened our new artificial ice rink . . . Ralph Marterie provided the music . . . Jane Robinson and Wally Beevers led their respective assemblies to a closer and more integrated existence . . . Conference stressed man’s changing image of himself . . . our last Junior Weekend . . . COMPREHENSIVES . . . Senior Week, with Class Day and the boat dance . . . and finally, our own Commencement—and we’re out on our own in the big, wide world.
The Library

Its granite walls loom up in sight
(Though paths lead off to the left and right);
Poor students continue the inward fight
To go astray or . . . To Study.

Inside, its walls hold many a fact—
From A to Z they're stored in a stack;
There's all the things that students lack
Who should go there . . . To Study.

Down in the ell there's a space marked "Reserve"
Where outside reading "throws many a curve";
And profs pile up pages with vim and verve
So students will have . . . To Study.

The Browsing Room is found upstairs
With mahogany tables and comfortable chairs.
And here you can sit with nary a care
And forget you're supposed . . . To Study.

And lastly of all is a room quite unique
Inhabited nights by the bookworm clique;
Here nestled among the solemn antiques
Is the student who has . . . To Study.
The Student Union

Strains of “Sh-boom, Sh-boom” sail forth from the smoke-filled Snack Bar. Eight people are crowded about each tiny table for four. There are a number of seat-hunters milling about with cups of sloshed coffee in their hands. In the corner the lovers sit alone and gaze at one another with starry eyes. Out in the hall some ride-searchers are scanning the bulletin board for notices, as the socialites cluster about a desk buying tickets for the newest campus affair. Across the hall the Book Store echoes in deserted silence; it is neither mail time when all the boys swamp to their boxes, nor is it Friday when everyone cashes checks.

A pair of noisy feet hurry up the stairs to the Campus office. Typewriters are clicking furiously behind all the doors as the newest issue of the newspaper is assembled. Down the hall in the Kaleid office a group of absorbed students are working busily on a layout. In the Mountain Club office some boys in hiking boots are conversing lazily, while in the South Lounge a committee is at work.

From the basement the Radio Station is broadcasting the latest hit tunes. A group of students are playing round-robin at the ping-pong table, and the Print Shop employees are busy—printing, of course!!

This is the Stu U with its new decor, friendly atmosphere and bustling activity! This is the place where particular people congregate!
To The Special Major—In Flicks!

What is so chic as a flique?
Not unique like the clique at bezique!—
Just a good gastronome
In the old hippodrome—
(You can pay by the day or the week).

There is such a group at the college
That, to the best of my knowledge,
Is versed in Spillane,
Knows Shakespeare from “Shane,”
And, if prodded, can spout off some Col-eridge.

They use for a text “Spector’s Guide,”
And in “True Confessions” confide.
When it’s time for a Pre-A
They are given some leeway
Because of the darkness inside.

The advantage of this herein lies:
You mix business and pleasure besides.
The improvement of mind
Is not far behind,
But it’s terribly hard on the eyes!

Thanks to . . .

all those who in any way, large or small, contributed to the success of the 1955 Kaleidoscope, from roommates to “friends down the hall,” heads of organizations to “low men on totem poles” who carried out many small but helpful assignments, and especially too . . .

Peter Gurwit of Jahn & Ollier Engraving Company who was of invaluable help with the “dummy” and who counseled us wisely in many other matters.

Joseph Ledbetter of Benson Printing Company for his help in printing our book.
James Gilmore of S. K. Smith Company who relieved us of all problems in designing the cover.

Henry Prickitt for his much appreciated help in financial matters.

Bernard Cole, Phil Braun, and John F. Smith for contributions to the photographic work.

Robert Klein for a visit in Boston on our behalf.

“Duke” Nelson and the Field House Office for their aid in captioning athletic teams.

The Campus Office for use of their phone.

Nancy Walker, Aurelie Jones, and a multitude of others who turned out top-notch articles for the literary part of the book . . . and those who helped with captioning, typing and proof-reading.

. . . And particularly to Gil Meeker and Stu Bacon who photographed all the student organizations and events on campus throughout the year, and came up with “top shots” at all times and on every occasion. The success of the book is in great part due to their efforts.

Many thanks . . .

BUILDING MATERIALS
Congratulations to the Class of 1955

You are going out from the security of your school life to build a better world. Much of your effort, we hope, will be directed toward cementing friendship between groups... it will be building bridges of common interest and understanding between the nations of the world. Some of you will be entering the field of industry... others may become architects... and still others may be of that group of men who make the architect's dreams materialize in the shape of fine new buildings.

Whatever your work in the future, The Vermont Structural Steel Corporation reminds you that the quality you build into it will determine its value... quality of spirit and quality of material. The Vermont Structural Steel Corporation takes this opportunity of extending its congratulations and sincere good wishes to the class of 1955.
WE ARE PROUD OF OUR PARTICIPATION IN THE CONSTRUCTION OF THE NEW SKATING RINK AND THE BUILDING OF THE NEW GIRL'S DORMITORY "BATELL CENTER"

R. S. NOONAN, President
